OVERVIEW

Housing and Residence Life returned to in-person operations with some residual COVID protocols including isolation housing in Phillips-Hawkins. The remaining buildings opened with 5,178 residents (91.5%). That was about 4% over budgeted occupancy. 78% of the incoming freshmen class lived in residence halls. Programming throughout the year and involvement in RHA and Hall Councils remained high all year. Students were excited to have so many opportunities to connect. Residence life Staff used their "Connections" program to make intentional contacts with over 80% of the residential students in the first six weeks of the semester, resulting in over 3,600 direct referrals to student support resources. We also saw increases in mental health and crisis situations. HRL partnered with Dean of Students, UNCG PD, and University Communications to develop messaging to support student success.

After several years of deferring major maintenance projects, Housing is planning and addressing capital projects. One planned project that completed design work is the HVAC replacement in Phillips/Hawkins that will go out to bid in August. Another unplanned project in design is the repair of the exterior stucco on Jefferson Suites.

HRL continued to have significant collaborations across campus. One new collaboration to highlight is one with School of Health and Human Sciences to develop and new LLC for HHS majors to launch next fall.
